

McTeague Higbee Named Top-Tier Law Firm in Employment Law and Workers' Compensation for Individuals in Portland Area

TOPSHAM, Maine - U.S. News and World Report recently named Topsham-based law firm McTeague Higbee in the top tier of Portland-area law firms practicing in the fields of employment law for individuals and workers' compensation for claimants.

This is the second time U.S. News and World Report has released a ranking of law firms in the country and the second time McTeague Higbee ranked in the top tier in both of those fields. The rankings are based on qualities including: expertise, responsiveness, cost-effectiveness, civility, and integrity.

"While our foremost priority is protecting the interests of our clients, we certainly appreciate the recognition we have received from U.S. News and World Report for the last two years," notes Jeffrey Cohen, managing partner of McTeague Higbee. "We view our ranking as a responsibility to continue providing quality representation to working people throughout the State of Maine."

U.S. News and World Report compiled its rankings from 3.9 million evaluations by clients, firms, and peer reviews from leading attorneys in their fields.

About McTeague Higbee:

McTeague Higbee, founded in 1976, is a plaintiffs-only firm dedicated to giving voice to people who often don't have one. With experience in both state and federal courts including national litigation, McTeague Higbee has particular prominence in asbestos litigation, workplace discrimination, labor and employment litigation, workers' compensation, construction accidents, and personal injury. For more information about McTeague Higbee, visit www.mcteaguehigbee.com.

#